

Local TV station provides sneak peek of Summit Wine & Food Festival

Published: Saturday, August 06, 2011, 11:20 AM

IP By Independent Press
Follow

Ivan Ruiz, founder and executive director of the Summit Wine & Food Festival (left), discusses the upcoming Festival with HomeTowne TV's Paula Mooney (right) in a sneak preview now being broadcast as a two part series on HTTV. The festival will be held in Summit on Sept. 9-11.

Want to get the scoop on the upcoming Summit Wine & Food Festival? Tune into HomeTowne Television for a two part series that previews what's planned for the annual festival for lovers of fine wine and gourmet food. The TV series will be aired several times a week beginning in August and continuing up to the dates of the festival on Sept. 9-11. In Part 1 of the series, Paula Mooney hosts Ivan Ruiz, the founder and executive director of the Summit Wine & Food Festival, for a lively discussion of food and wine pairings. Four prominent chefs contribute their experience and creativity to the interchange.

In Part 2 of the series, co-host Janet Parmelee and Ivan discuss cuisine and beverages. A beer maven and a mixologist are on hand sharing their expertise.

HomeTowne TV broadcasts over Verizon channel 33 and Comcast channel 36. Go to HomeTowneTV.org for specific times when the series will be broadcast. HomeTowne TV's signal reaches 30 towns in Union, Essex, Morris and Somerset Counties.

Tickets for the Third Annual Summit Wine & Food Festival can be obtained from the Wine List of Summit Store at 417 Springfield Ave., Summit, or by phone at 908-277-6565 or via summitwineandfood.com.

